3. What are you most proud of and why?

I am most proud of the friends in my life - they are beautiful and powerful and good hearted people and the fact they love and appreciate me says a lot about me as a person.

4. If you could have lunch with any person from the past or present, who would it be and why?

I would love to have lunch with Johnny Depp because I find him to be such a fun, powerful, playful and dignified artist and I think he's done a fantastic job living his life.

5. What life lessons would you hope to pass on to your own child one day?

I would love to teach them to think for themselves, to be healthy and to maximize the potential that their body and brain grant them, to care for others, to be diligent in creating what they want for themselves and to have as much fun & fulfillment along the way as they can.

6. What is the most adventurous thing you've ever done?

I took a job in India and left behind my old job, family, homeland and friends to go work far from everything I knew. It was an eye opening experience, filled with challenges and fantastic experiences. I met so many and communed with people from such different backgrounds from my own that it forever changed my perspective of my homeland and how wealthy I am as an American. Beyond that, it gave me a stronger sense of what's important to me and what my ideal lifestyle is.
